

Avoid SCAMS

Only a scammer or a fraudulent business will request personal financial information via a text message or email. No government agency or real business would ever ask for person financial information by test or email. Do not perform any task you were instructed to do in a text message or email like changing a password or issuing a payment.

Never click on a link in a text or email message.

Do not respond to the text or email message in any way.

Report the text or email message to your providers SPAM / SCAM reporting number.

Call your bank or financial institution and let them know you were a victim of a scam. Don't be embarrassed. Tell them the details of what happened and what information the scammer got. This will allow them to watch your account to ensure they catch any transactions that might be out of the ordinary.
